Established in 1989,

Aviation Resource Management (ARM)

provides a host of expert business aviation resources. From on-demand charter, to aircraft acquisition and management, ARM makes corporate air travel a viable and practical reality for every client we serve.

Charter

ARM is unique among charter companies. Our fleet boasts an impressive selection of new aircraft from the King Air turboprop, through light and mid-sized Lear Jets, to the intercontinental Challenger 604. This versatile fleet, strategically based within the New York metropolitan area, is complemented by an extensive network of charter partners enabling ARM to provide rapid, personalized service on a moment's notice.

Aircraft Management

Certain concepts are critical to an aircraft owner; chief among these are efficiency, accountability, and return on investment. ARM's team of experienced professionals are available to provide expert management of your aircraft and all of your ancillary concerns. From personally coordinating and supervising all maintenance, to delivering superior purchasing power.

Acquisition

As an operator of business aircraft, ARM offers expertise in the process of selecting the best aircraft. Our recommendations are custom tailored to your needs, and reflect the benefit of our real-world experiences with respect to cost of operation, mission capability, charter marketability, and resale.

Utilize the ARM advantage.
